

ACS to produce a commemorative publication on CU's 800th Anniversary

The Association of Cambridge Studies has recently got fundings from the International Office of Cambridge University on production of a special publication to commemorate CU's 800th Anniversary. This issue will focus specifically on past, present and future ties between Cambridge and China, and will include pieces by Chinese alumni in academia, business and government. Equal emphasis will be placed on opinions from interested parties within Cambridge University. In addition, we are actively encouraging contributions from Cambridge Chinese Alumni all over the world. The issue hopes to promote and showcase Cambridge's rich history and culture to young people within China who are, or may consider pursuing their studies or academic career here.

Our project welcomes the participation from motivated people that may or may not currently reside in Cambridge.
