

ACS launches "China Research Seminar Series"

The Association of Cambridge Studies (ACS) and Cambridge International Forum for Development (CiF) are launching a new seminar series specifically focused on China-related research. The seminars are given by Chinese Scholars who are doing research at Cambridge as well as Cambridge's academics who focus on China-related issues. The series intends to create a centralized resource for exchanging ideas among researchers dedicated to China research. Topics of the series are quite wide-ranging but normally restricted to social science studies. All members of the university are welcome.

More information can be found at <http://www.acs-cam.org.uk/CRSS/crss.html>

Our project welcomes the participation from motivated people that may or may not currently reside in Cambridge.